Central Bank to move - gives city Edison building, more

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Central Bank will move out of its historic building at 1909 Edison Ave., bank officials announced Monday.

The retail banking facilities will be moved to the bank's current branch at 3303 Nameoki Road, the former American Heritage Bank.

Renovations there are scheduled to begin this month. It will be renovated inside and out.

The Nameoki Road bank will become the cornerstone of Central Plaza — presently undergoing renovation by a partnership of metro area developers with improved parking and traffic flow.

The historic building on Edison will be given to the city, Board Chairman Drew Karandjeff said.

"We'll take it," Mayor Von Dee Cruse said. "It's a decision for the aldermen, but personally I know of lots of good uses we can make of it."

From the viewpoint of downtown redevelopment, Cruse said Karandjeff's granting the city an option on the accompanying downtown parking property was even more important.

"In order to attract a store like Wal-Mart we've got to create the equivalent of a cornfield for them downtown," Cruse said. "This represents 10 percent of that cornfield."

Economic Development Director Alan Ortals said the parking areas are very important because their location covers "most of the footprint" of the proposed major retail store as mapped out in current redevelopment plans.

"Property acquisition has always been our biggest concern downtown — we have to prove we can come up with the property in a timely manner if we want to attract a store," Ortals said. "This option solves a lot of that."

Chris Winter, Central Bank spokesman, said the decision to move the retail operations was based on customer needs.

"Our customers have moved out there, so we are moving our retail services out there. Also, we are paving the way for downtown," she said.

"Drew (Karandjeff) is all for the downtown — renovation. After it has all taken place, we'd like to move back downtown — open a branch."

Winter said the move out of 1909 Edison should take place in February or March.

Approximately 80 employees are affected by the move, Winter said. There are no plans for major personnel changes except that the Central Bank holding company, presently located in the Edison building and consist-

Board makes new offer

By Paul Guggina

GRANITE CITY — Teachers find the latest offer by the Board of Education "offensive and inequitable," Granite City Federation of Teachers President Shirley Stoll said Monday night.

The board offered the union a three-and-a-half year contract Monday that included raises of 4 percent for 1988-89, 2 percent for 1989-90, 1 percent for the first half of the 1990-91 school year, and a reopener for salary negotiations in January 1991.

The board's previous offer called for a 4 percent raise in 1988-89, an additional 2 percent possible this school year if there is money left over at the end of the year, and a reopener clause for further salary negotiations next summer.

The latest offer would also: improve insurance benefits for teachers and retirees; extend the school day by up to 55 minutes for teachers (not students); and maintain the current school schedule as nearly as possible, making up none of the days lost due to the strike.

"We don't feel there's very significant progress," Stoll said following nearly seven hours of negotiations Monday. "I think there's been extremely little progress. In fact, some of the proposals got worse."

Stoll said the union would make a counter-offer Tuesday. Terry Salem, spokesman for the school board's negotiating team, defended the board's latest proposal.

"We're trying to make some progress and we thought this was a decent package," Salem said Tuesday. "We feel our proposal is better than it was, or we wouldn't have done it."

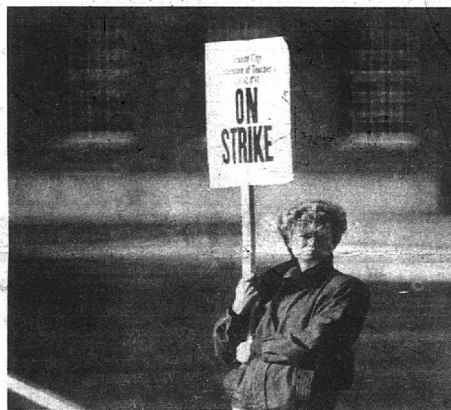

Negotiators for the teachers and the school board met from 2 p.m. to nearly 7 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Monday. At 7 p.m., the union membership held what Stoll called an "informational" meeting.

"No votes taken, but many opinions were expressed," Stoll said. "There was no doubt in our minds how the people felt."

"There are some things (in the board's latest offer) we find rather offensive and inequitable, and in some areas we're a little bit closer."

Stoll said the teachers dislike the size of the proposed raises, the longer workdays and lack of makeup days.

Granite Citizens in Cancun escape injury in hurricane

By Terry Edelmann
Staff affiliate

Bi-state area residents vacationing or honeymooning in Jamaica or Mexico had no idea a killer storm was swooping upon them, they said after surviving the terror of Hurricane Gilbert.

Granite City resident Gary

King, who was honeymooning in Cancun with his wife, Paula, said waiting out the hurricane in Cancun was "my worst nightmare times three."

King said the scariest moment was Wednesday morning, Sept. 14.

"All of us were taken from our hotel to a small schoolroom."

'88 drought bad, future flooding may be worse

First of a series

Drought plagued Metro East in 1980 but many people regard flooding as this region's chief threat.

It was on Oct. 4, 1966, that the Mississippi River raced into East St. Louis, routing 1,200 persons from their homes and causing $18 million damage.

The body of Bobby Rancher, 51, East St. Louis, a drowning victim, was found the next day in flood waters near the John RIVER STAY AWAY FROM MY DOOR. The scene is not from the big 1903 flood but from October 1986, when a riverfront pumping station gate failure flooded southern areas of East St. Louis. Boat transportation was the only option for people near Robinson School, 17th Street and Bond Avenue.

tary District's newer pump-station flood gates had failed due to water pressure, causing the flood. Could it happen again?

Even-older pump stations protect the Granite City area, Cahokia and other portions of East St. Louis. If they fail, the special funding that enabled the gate broken in 1986 to be repaired won't be available, authorities have said.

Officials acknowledge the importance of proceeding with remedial steps to prevent river flooding and also cite two other concerns — interior surface water flooding and high groundwater. R C Bush, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice president, said this week, "There has been a rapid increase in the quantity and

Public Works post for Costello

By Edward T. Hearn
P-R/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Despite being low man on the House totem pole, new Rep. Jerry Costello, D-21st, appears to have completed moves to establish a power base in Congress by gaining a seat on the coveted House Public Works and Transportation Committee. Costello, elected in August and at the moment the least likely to benefit from the House's time-honored seniority system, is planning to join the committee early next month just before the House adjourns for the fall campaign.

100 residential units to be built

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Louisville District, has awarded a $9.6 million contract to build 100 residential units on government land at the Charles Melvin Price Support Center in Granite City. The subdivision at the base will comprise two general officers' quarters, 66 four-bedroom units, 27 three-bedroom units and five two-bedroom units.

Library branch to begin move

This week, moving vans will carry books from the temporary Granite City Branch Library, 2020 Johnson Road, to the newly constructed branch at 2145 Johnson. Neither branch will be open to the public during the move and reorganization, Gregg McGee, branch supervisor, said.

Downtown group plans house tour

The Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society will hold its annual house tour from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday. Tickets for $5 may be purchased the day of the tour at Concordia Lutheran Church, 2301 Grand Ave., where antique cars, fire engines and vintage clothing will be on display. Carriage rides will also be available.

William Swanson

State Chamber

William D. Swanson, vice president and general manager, Granite City Division, National Steel Corp., was elected to a first term Sept. 15 on the board of directors of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce. Swanson was among 13 business leaders chosen, representing a cross-section of the state's commerce and industry. Swanson joined National Steel in 1960, working in Terre Haute, Ind., Houston and Weirton, W.Va., before coming to Granite City in 1974.

Trouble in river city

DeShields housing project. Several persons in that city were treated for injuries. The John Robinson housing complex also was flooded and five schools, including Lincoln High School, had to be temporarily closed.

Gov. James R. Thompson declared parts of the city to be disaster areas.

When the unexpected flooding occurred in southern areas of East St. Louis, families were evacuated to temporary shelters in other neighborhoods. Homes, businesses and the City Hall suffered extensive water damage. Tetanus shots were given to persons exposed to the flood.

One of the Metro East San-

Big task ahead, but help available

Flood control is moving to the center of the stage of Metro East concerns, due to developments outlined in weekly articles beginning in today's issue.

Attention will be focusing this fall on the Metro East Sanitary District because of its state-mandated mission in western communities of Madison and St. Clair counties.

MESD faces a major undertaking. But fortunately, both Illinois and Uncle Sam are stepping forward to help shoulder the burden.

It will be recalled that MESD's predecessor, the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, was formed in 1907 to reduce the threat of Mississippi River flooding and to divert and control water from the uplands. Although some levees already had been built, East Side was the first district to try to provide flood protection for the entire American Bottoms and to construct facilities to drain it.

ESLS initially dealt with flooding from tributary streams. In 1910, it began a diversion channel to transport water from Cahokia Creek directly across the floodplain to the river; flank levees were built to protect bottomland from water backing up into this channel. In 1917, ESLS started a similar project on the south end, creating a floodway (with flank levees) for Prairie du Pont Creek.

Meanwhile, a riverfront levee along the east bank of the Mississippi was built in 1911-15. It is this system — the river levee, the Cahokia diversion channel and levee, and the Prairie du Pont floodway and levee — that was designed to guard against every instance of high water up to a "200-year" river stage (52 feet at the Market Street gauge).

As authorized by the Flood Control Act of 1938, the Army Corps of Engineers strengthened these levees in a federal project completed in 1968.

The levee district also developed a drainage system to alleviate flooding from interior surface water. In 1916, part of Cahokia Creek was straightened and deepened. In 1920, Canal No. 1 was begun along the base of the bluffs, but it was never finished and receives only the water from Powdermill Creek.

Additional laterals to the major ditches have been constructed, levees have been raised, and some streams have been relocated. But the flood protection and drainage system today is similar to that built by the district in its early years.

Much residential and commercial development has occurred. With rooftops, roads and parking lots reducing the land that can absorb rain, there has been an increase in runoff water. And for a number of years, funds have been grossly inadequate for the district's operating and maintenance costs.

Despite these handicaps, the Metro East Sanitary District has the duty of maintaining drainage ditches, pump stations and levees in its territory of 103 square miles; it also receives stormwater runoff from adjacent upland drainage areas totaling 76 square miles.

As noted, it's a big responsibility, but joining MESD in seeking solutions are the federal government's Corps of Engineers and the state government's Illinois Department of Transportation, the latter under a law that just went into effect, on June 30, 1988.

Sept. 30 deadline on auto licenses

Passenger car owners who have license plates expiring in September should buy their renewal stickers at one of six Secretary of State vehicle facilities in Springfield and Chicago or at any of 1,750 Illinois financial institutions, Secretary of State Jim Edgar said.

It is now too late to send applications by mail and guarantee delivery of stickers before the Sept. 30 expiration date.

September 1989 stickers may be purchased at 910 banks, 203 savings and loan associations, 35 credit unions and about 600 Chicago-area currency exchanges.

The new, green sticker is attached to the back of the ID card. The sticker should be placed over the current sticker at the bottom of the rear plate.

Approximately 714,000 pre-printed renewal applications have been mailed to passenger car owners who renew their stickers in September.

Old Newsboys 'for the Kids'

By Lucyann Boston

Thanks to the record $241,756 collected in last year's Suburban Journals' Old Newsboys Day campaign:

•The American Lung Association had $1,500 to send six youngsters to camp.

•The American Red Cross had $1,500 to provide warm winter coats to children whose families had lost their possessions because of fires, floods and other disasters.

•The Cahokia Mound Council Boy Scouts had $890 for canoe paddles and a sailboat for summer outings.

•CASA (St. Louis Conservatory and Schools for the Arts) had $875 for a video cassette recorder and television set so students could see themselves perform.

•The Catholic Youth Council/Camp Don Bosco had $900 for riding helmets for disabled children who are learning horsemanship.

•Edgewood Children's Center had $1,500 for equipment including a swing and tents.

•The Mathews-Dickey Boys' Club had $1,500 to provide educational and school supplies for underprivileged children.

•The Miriam School had $950 for two television sets, a film-strip machine and several reading comprehension film strips.

•The Missouri Special Olympics Inc. Area II had $1,500 worth of medals and ribbons for special kids.

•Reading is Fundamental had $1,500 to provide books for kids in its summer reading program.

•Shaare Zedek Synagogue had $975 for a work bench, blocks, a water table, a record player and numerous other toys.

•The St. Charles County Association for Retarded Citizens had $1,316 to purchase educational toys.

•The United Cerebral Palsy Association had $1,500 for recreational and physical therapy equipment.

It's a wonderful example of what happens when the community unites in a cause to help its children," said Norman R. McMullin, president of the Suburban Journals, reflecting on the variety of needs of the 228 agencies that benefited from the 1987 Old Newsboys campaign.

As our 1988 Chairman Bill Maritz says, "It's the kids that Old Newsboys Day is all about."

McMullin cited three reasons for last year's record total: the generosity of the St. Louis bi-state community, the dedicated work of the 9,000 volunteers who braved traffic jams and chilly winds to sell a special edition of the Suburban Journals, and the wide geographical distribution of Journals, which brought Old Newsboys Day to parts of the metropolitan area where papers

Female photographers sought

A photography contest for women who are amateur or professional photographers will be held in conjunction with the "New Generations of Women" conference Sunday, Nov. 13, at John E. Simon Hall at Washington University.

The conference is sponsored by Jewish Hospital, Southwestern Bell and the Suburban Journals.

The photo contest, titled, "How I See Generations of Women," is open to any woman 18 or older.

Each entry should depict at least two generations of women, not necessarily people who are related, interacting with each other. Photographs may be color or black and white and made from negatives or slides. Prints must be between 8-by-10 inches and 11-by-14 inches, unmounted.

Each entry must be accompanied by information listing the photographer's name, address, home and office telephone numbers and the title and category of the entry. The information must be printed in ink on the back of the photograph.

The four categories for judging include amateur black and white, professional black and white, amateur color and professional color. Each entrant may submit no more than one photograph to the contest.

Three winners will be selected in each category and a "best of show" will be named.

Entries should be received by 5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 24, at "Generations of Women," Women's Health Resources, Jewish Hospital, 216 S. Kingshighway, St. Louis, Mo. 63110. Those interested in entering may call 454-8890 for more information and a copy of the contest rules.

The judge will be Karen Foss, KSDK-TV (Channel 5) news anchor; Rick Gould of Rick Gould Photography; Rick Graefe, photographer for the Suburban Journals; Anne Keefe, host of KMOX Radio's "At Your Service"; Robin Smith, co-anchor of KMOV-TV (Channel 3); "News for Your Midday"; Jack Walsh, photographer and president of the St. Louis Convention and Visitors Commission; and Stephen Weitz of K & S Photo Graphics.

Winners will be determined on the basis of composition, originality, interest of subject matter, aesthetic appeal and consistency with the theme. They will be notified during the week of Nov. 6 and announced on Friday, Nov. 11, in the Suburban Journals.

Best of Show will win a weekend in a private suite at the Clarion Hotel in St. Louis (valued at $600) with dinner for two and Sunday brunch, both at the Top of the Riverfront.

All first-place winners will receive a telephone from Southwestern Bell; second-place finishers will receive two grand circle box seat tickets to a Fox Theater performance; compliments of KYKY-FM (98.1); and third-place recipients will be given a certificate good for a 16-by-20-inch enlargement of their entry or some other photograph, compliments of K & S.

Bereavement group adds 2nd meeting

Hospice of Madison County is announcing the addition of a second monthly meeting for the People Needing People Bereavement Support Group beginning in September.

The group will continue to meet on the second Tuesday of every month, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at Anderson Hospital in Maryville. In addition, it will meet on the fourth Tuesday of every month, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., in the Wiesman Room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave., Granite City.

The bereavement support group is open to all family members and friends of Hospice of Madison County and the bereaved in the community.

"I'm really excited about adding another meeting every month. We began the group in January 1986 to provide a safe and comfortable environment in which grief and mourning are understood as fundamentally normal and healthy processes. Now we can help even more people in the community," said Mary Peach, RN, MSW, CSW, group founder and facilitator.

"One of the best ways to work through grief is to be able to reach out from yourself to help others. We want to provide a place for bereaved individuals to share their experiences, support each other and work together to resolve their losses and accept new responsibilities."

For more information about the PNP Bereavement Support Group, persons may call Hospice of Madison County at 798-3399 or 656-8228.

CENTRAL HARDWARE

READY TO ROLL. Harold Chandler accepts the keys to a new van from Helen Bergfield (center), chairperson of the Mobile Meals Program and president of the Auxiliary at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. At right is Elizabeth Griggs, Auxiliary vice president. Chandler will use the van, which was donated by the Auxiliary, to deliver hot meals to homebound people in the Quad City area.

Mobile Meals gets new wheels

Harold Chandler, the man who hits the road in all kinds of weather to deliver hot meals to as many as 90 housebound people in the Quad City area, has himself a new set of wheels to get around in these days. And the nine-year associate of St. Elizabeth Medical Center couldn't be happier.

Say goodbye to the old van, a full-size version with more than 80,000 miles logged on it, and say hello to a sporty new Astro mini-van.

"It's great, really great," Chandler said of the new van, donated to the Mobile Meals program at St. Elizabeth Medical Center by the hospital's Auxiliary.

Chandler was preparing to make his third official run in the van, loading in five stacks of thermos food trays and a beverage cooler into a cargo area.

"They (the Auxiliary) really did something when they bought this," he said. "It's more compact and easier to handle. We can maneuver around with this one better."

The van, too, will be more easily identifiable to recipients, as will Chandler, who now wears a white collared shirt with blue lettering to match the colors of the van.

The words, "St. Elizabeth Medical Center" and "Mobile Meals" are painted on both sides of the van as well as on the front and top. On the back are the Auxiliary's name and the United Way's name.

In 1988 and 1989, the Mobile Meals program will receive funding from the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

In the past, the financial burden rested largely on the medical center.

The remaining balance needed will come from contributions received from the community at large, such as individuals, churches and organizations, and the SEMC Auxiliary.

There has not been any governmental funding, and continues to be no government support. (See WHEELS, Page 10A)

Facility No. 11D0027360

Notice of Closure No. 88850

Date: September 3, 1988

NOTICE OF CLOSURE

A plan to close the Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation hazardous waste container storage area and waste pile facility located near Granite City, Illinois, has been submitted to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) pursuant to Subpart G of 35 Ill. Admin. Code 720. The site is a manufacturing facility for crescent and coil tar products. The hazardous waste management facility is a stockpile area for hazardous waste tank and tank car cleanings containing tars and a container storage area for on-site waste water treatment sludge containing tars. Reilly Tar and Chemical shall continue operations at this location following closure of the hazardous waste management unit described in this notice.

At this time the IEPA is also requesting that the facility provide information concerning any prior release of hazardous waste constituents from any solid waste management facility on the site.

Interested persons are invited to submit written comments on the plan or request modification of the plan or provide hazardous waste constituents from the facility within 30 days of the first publication date of this notice. Written comments must be addressed to the IEPA, Government and Community Affairs, Attn: Public Notice Clerk, 2200 Churchill Road, P.O. Box 799, Springfield, Illinois 62764-0799.

The site must be closed in accordance with the standards set forth in the Environmental Protection Act, Ill. Rev. Stat., Ch. 111 1/2, Pars. 101 et seq., and regulations adopted thereunder.

The proposed closure plan, closure performance requirements, and other documents are available for inspection and may be copied at a cost of 25 cents per page at the IEPA's Springfield headquarters.

An appointment to inspect the proposed closure plan must be made in advance by contacting the Division of Land Pollution Control, Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) office at 2200 Churchill Road, P.O. Box 799, Springfield, Illinois 62764-0799, 217-783-6800.

In response to requests or at the discretion of the IEPA, a public hearing may be held to clarify or more information concerning the closure plan. Public notice will be issued 30 days before any public hearing. (LR: 11/27/88-66)

Two Navy Mothers given national appointments

Mary E. Korcosog and Nina Molsinger were appointed to the Navy Mothers National Ways and Means Chairwomen at the national convention in Springfield, Mo., by National Commander Peggy Rizzo.

The announcement was made when 13 members of the Quad Cities Navy Mothers met at Pantera's for dinner. Afterward, members met at the VFW for their regular meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Commander Mary Ann

Rollberg, and 17 members responded to roll call.

A discussion was held about a tag day and rummage sale to be held in the near future.

The mystery package was won by Stella Miller, and the special bingo was won by Norma Darrell and Mamie Boyer.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 22.

Those interested in learning about Navy Mothers may call 877-5049 or 876-2209.

Alpha Gamma starts up again

Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its annual Beginning Day meeting at Charlie's Restaurant on Aug. 28.

President Imogene Forrest reviewed plans for the coming club year and received gifts for her 25 years in the chapter.

Others present were Ruth Stoyanoff, Janita Calve, Martha Dyer, Lora Lombardi, Dolores Byrnes, Alice Konieczny and Arlene Haldeman.

Members joined Edwardsville Beta Sigma's at a "Pave It with Stars" Beginning Day at the Sunset Hills Country Club. Attending were members of Beta Sigma Phi chapters from Troy, Collinsville, Edwardsville and Granite City. Laureate members were Stoyanoff, Byrnes, Bea Brackett, Konieczny and Evelyn Tolliver.

Beauty pageant held

The Miss Lily of the Valley Pageant was held Aug. 14 at the Granite City Township Hall. The over-all high point princess was Daria Mayhall.

The pageant consisted of dress sportswear modeling and an interview. There was also a talent competition and a photogenic competition.

Christian Women plan baby shower

At the September meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian Church, the members made plans for a baby shower to be held in October for mothers of new babies in need.

This is a project of Church Women United.

Some members will attend a Christian Women's Fellowship retreat Sept. 23 and 24 at the Orchard Crest Camp Ground near Fredricktown, Mo. Registered are Doris Edwards, Jean Tamayo, Myra Parrish, Helen Stumpe, Betty Rush and Mary Lou Hecker.

Members held a rummage and bake sale being held at the church Sept. 16.

Strike

With regard to the raises, Stoll said: "We feel the board could give us more without being hurt financially. We do not want to hurt this district financially."

Salem said that while the latest salary offer is an improvement over the previous offer, "the board is trying to be fiscally responsible. We're not going to jeopardize the school district's finances."

The three-and-a-half year contract proposal is an effort to provide some stability in the district," Salem said.

Regarding the longer workdays, Stoll said, "We have a lot of people who in a lot of additional hours before and after school on their own time, but now they want to tell us what we're going to do with our time."

Salem said the adjusted work schedule, which would require elementary school teachers to work 55 minutes longer per day and others to work 30 minutes longer, would allow time for "parent conferences, planning sessions, building meetings, etc."

In addition, Stoll said, "The teachers want days made up. One of the reasons we want the makeup days is so students get a full academic year."

"The board says no makeup days. The teachers are concerned about the students not getting behind academically. We want them to have a full academic year."

Salem said the board's team stands firm in maintaining the current schedule without shortening next year's summer vacation or cutting into other school vacations.

"We asked them to come to work while they continued negotiations, and they refused."

The teachers would not be reimbursed for the days lost due to the strike.

"I still don't think the board is acting in good faith," Stoll said. "Not with this kind of bargaining. This has just solidified our membership."

Stoll said the teachers were happy with some parts of the new offer, such as increasing the amount paid to retirees for accumulated non-absences to $10,000 from $9,000, and paying retirees' individual insurance cost from the time they retire (as early as age 55) until they reach 65.

Practices allowed, but coaches refuse

By Paul Guggins
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Superintendent Gib Walmsley said Monday that practices would be allowed for certain athletic and extracurricular activities, but coaches refused to cooperate.

Band, football, soccer, volleyball, cross-country track and cheerleading practices may be coordinated by district coaches and supervisors, Walmsley said.

The action has been approved by the Illinois High School Association, he said.

After seven days of a strike, the football team needs to have had at least three days of practice rehearsing in interscholastic competition once school resumes, Walmsley said.

"After 14 days (of a strike), they will need five days of practice," he said.

The days are defined as calendar days, excluding Sundays.

Walmsley said he initially thought coaches would hold practices, but learned Tuesday they would not.

But Shirley Stoll, president of the Granite City Federation of Teachers, said she saw the action as "an attempt to try to split the membership."

Stoll said the first she heard of the district's action was at a meeting of the union membership Monday night.

"We didn't know anything about this until we went into our meeting. Some of our coaches said they were contacted by the superintendent. We feel it was an attempt to split the membership even more."

"We felt — and the coaches were there, too — that when the school board is ready to put the teachers back to work teaching the academics, then the rest of the people will be ready to go back to extracurricular activities, too."

"The coaches were present at the meeting. Most of them were there and they went along with the membership."

Carson

Mary Augusta (Unfried) Carson, 75, Brumley, Mo., formerly of Granite City, died Thursday, Sept. 19, 1988, in Jefferson City, Mo. She had been in ill health for four years.

Mrs. Carson was born in southern Illinois and had lived in Granite City for over 60 years. She was a member of St. Cornelius Catholic Church, Crocker, Mo.

Preceding her in death was her husband, Patrick W. Carson, who died in 1967.

Survivors include two daughters, Elenora Smoot, Brumley, and Rita Bradford, Granite City; one brother, Clemons Unfried, Granite City; 14 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and several great-great-grandchildren.

Visitation was held Sept. 9 at Stevenson and Mossman Funeral Home, Iberia, Mo. Funeral services were held at St. Cornelius Catholic Church on Sept. 10, with the Rev. Jack Pender officiating. Burial was at Hawkins Cemetery, Brumley.

nie Cagle, St. Louis, and Hobbs Holland, Great Lakes Naval Base, Chicago; one daughter, Brandi Bogeman, St. Louis; one brother, Rick Teller, Vienna, Ill.; her mother, Mrs. Pauline Ruediger, Madison; and her father, Francis Plafcan, Madison.

Visitation will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. (today) Wednesday at Lake-Sedack Funeral Home, 619 Madison Ave., Madison, where funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday, with the Rev. Harold Maynard officiating. Burial will be in St. John Cemetery, Granite City.

Jackson

Jane (Jones) Jackson, 59, 603 Anderson St., Carterville, Ill., died at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 14, 1988, at her home.

Mrs. Jackson was born April 6, 1929, in DeSoto, Ill. She was a retired field director for the Illinois Heart Association and a member of the First Presbyterian Church and Beta Sigma Phi. She formerly worked for the Singer Sewing Machine Co.

Survivors include her husband, Donald Jackson, whom she married in 1947; one son, Robert Jackson, Northfield, Ill.; one daughter, Debora Runion, Carbondale; her mother, Lita Patrick, Carterville; one brother, William Jones, Chattanooga, Tenn.; two sisters, Katherine Anderson, Portland, Ore., and Wanda Larson, Chester, Ill.; and three grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, Carterville. Memorials are suggested for Hospice of Southern Illinois; 305 S. Illinois, Belleville 62220.

Holland

Donna Jean (Teller) Holland, 36, St. Louis, formerly of Madison, was pronounced dead at 12:44 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 18, 1988, at her home by a St. Louis medical examiner staff member. The cause of death was a gunshot wound. Homicide detectives are not investigating.

Mrs. Holland was born Sept. 21, 1951, in St. Louis, where she lived for 15 years. She was employed as a bartender at Bush Tavern, St. Louis, for four years and was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include two sons, Ron-velocity of surface water runoff from upland areas.

"Added to this, the higher groundwater level has caused severe damage to sewer systems and also has caused the foundations of many structures to collapse."

There has been no lack of warnings from agencies familiar with the conditions, Bush said there is growing awareness among chamber members that the warnings are valid and not exaggerated.

Only two months before the October tragedy, in August 1986, a detailed engineering analysis recommended improvements. But there was no revenue that could be quickly allocated.

The urgency became even clearer in the wake of the flood. The flood gate was fixed, but refurbishing of the entire network of ditches, canals, gates and pumps could not be scheduled at that time.

Now, a solution may be possible, say Metro East citizens, regional business leaders and government drainage experts.

It involves a state-federal program to reduce the level of underground water in the American Bottoms, and a local-state-federal approach to cope with "Old Man River" and surface drainage.

Active involvement is being pledged by the Army Corps of Engineers and the Division of Water Resources of the Illinois Department of Transportation. They believe this highly industrialized, densely-populated bottomland area is in great jeopardy if there is inaction.

Citizens who are now considering organizing to seek a remedy say the key requires a positive response in the Nov. 8 election. Objectives, some easier to achieve than others, are listed as:

- Replacing or overhauling deteriorated riverfront gates and

- pumping equipment.
- Clearing and improving drainage ditches.
- Installing a network of 57 deep wells and pumps.

Why should the public bother to deal with the issue?

Illinois and U.S. officials assert that local floodplain protection is being lost, endangering people and their possessions and also complicating life for local residents in several other ways, including insurance coverage, related costs, employment opportunities and home values.

Area mourns Price's widow

By Edward T. Hearn
P-R/J Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Illinois officials Monday mourned the loss of Garadine Price, remembering the widow of Rep. Mel Price as the lawmaker's loyal partner in public service to Metro East.

"I am saddened to learn of the death of Garadine Price. She was a devoted and treasured partner of Mel Price, a congressman and statesman who served as my mentor. Garry and Mel made an important and positive difference in the lives of many," said U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon.

Dixon, the state's senior senator, was joined by Democratic Sen. Paul Simon and Rep. Jerry Costello in expressing their condolences to the Priceson, William, and other surviving relatives.

"Gerry enriched Mel's life and enriched the community. I knew her. Bill Price has lost both his mother and father within months, but his loss is shared by a great many," Simon said.

Mrs. Price entered Fairfax Hospital in Virginia 10 days ago and died at 11:20 p.m. Sunday. She was 66, according to a spokeswoman at the suburban Washington hospital. Death was attributed to lung cancer and brain tumors.

Funeral arrangements are being made at the Kurrus Funeral Home, Belleville.

Costello, the winner of the special election to fill Price's term following his death April 23, said he was "personally saddened by the news. Mrs. Price was loved and well remembered fondly by the people of the 21st District."

Robert Gaffner, the Greenville Republican who was lost in August and faces the Belleville Democrat again in November, tried to break Price's lock on the district in 1982, 1984 and 1986, the last time trailing by less than 1,000 votes.

Despite their political differences, Gaffner remained on good terms with Price and said Price's wife will be long remembered as the district's "first lady."

"Gerry was a first-class lady who took her role as chief confidant and assistant very seriously. She meant very much to the residents of southwestern Illinois and she and Mel will live in the memories of the public forever," Gaffner said.

Illinois Rep. Ken Gray, D-22nd, called Mrs. Price's death "a great loss."

"She was loved and respected by all on Capitol Hill," Gray said.

Mike Mansfield, who was Price's last administrative assistant in Washington, spent 10 years with the East St. Louis Democrat and remembered his wife as someone who was less concerned about policy than about the people who were working for her husband.

"She was very unique," said Mansfield, now a teacher at a community college. "I have a lot of memories of the boss and Mrs. Price. She was a very strong lady and had a voice in her campaign."

"She was concerned — like Mrs. Reagan, really — with the people around him."

ing of less than 10 employees, will move to Fairview Heights.

In a press release, Karandjeff said: "Our customers have come to expect a high level of service and convenience from our institution. The expanded scope of administration, products and services offered at our Nameoki site will assure a higher level of expertise for our growing customer base."

"The renovation at Nameoki is a response to the needs of our customers and the Granite City community. We have a responsibility to the people to provide them with complete services and the highest level of quality they've come to expect from a premier institution such as ours."

Central Bank was first established as the Granite City Trust & Savings Bank in 1910.

Costello

The Belleville Democrat gained the panel seat after neighboring Rep. Ken Gray, D-22nd, agreed to resign his Public Works seat a few months early, allowing his vacancy to be filled by a fellow southern Illinoisan.

"I suggested it to him and I want to see that it's carried out," Gray said. "He said it was like a hog eating slop."

But the formal announcement isn't expected to come until the Democrats' Steering and Policy Committee, chaired by House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, has agreed to the swap. Gray said he expects Wright to go along.

Costello aides said the freshman lawmaker was not in a position to respond to the reports because the committee assignment has not been formally announced by the House Democratic leadership.

"Jerry can't confirm or deny anything like that. It's really up to the leadership," Matt Melucci, Costello's legislative assistant, said Monday.

Robert Gaffner, the GOP candidate facing Costello in November, acknowledged that he would have gunned for Public Works. However, he took a dim view of Gray's decision, saying it was meant to give Costello a leg up in their race.

"It's certainly indicative of the politics (Costello's) accustomed to and that's cutting deals," Gaffner said.

"(Gray) appears he is denying his own district, the leadership that it deserves."

Cancun

There were 61 of us together. The rain was pouring down, the windows were blowing, and I saw a big oak tree blown out of the ground.

"I thought we were going to die," King, a former reporter for the Granite City Press-Record/Journal and Cahokia-Dupo Journal, said Monday after he and his bride returned here.

Now on the staff of the O'Fallon and Fairview Heights Journals, King said he thought several times during the morning of the storm that the school would blow down. "And I knew if it went, we went."

"I really think the Mexican officials were trying to cover it up," said Clayton attorney Frank Baxendale, who was vacationing in Cancun. They didn't want to admit it was coming.

Although news media in the United States had been covering the storm since the weekend of Sept. 10, Cancun officials didn't warn tourists of the storm until Sept. 13, he said.

Although King and his wife had shelter, he said it was still harrowing.

"We were so crowded we couldn't even stretch our legs. We had to sit Indian style and try to sleep by leaning against the wall."

King said they stayed in the schoolroom until Thursday at 3 p.m. "It got pretty bad. We had no running water and no electricity. Tempers got short and the smells were bad."

King said he thinks they deserve a second honeymoon. For this one, he's thinking about something a little safer.

"Maybe we'll go to Chicago," he said.

THE GRAND FLORIDIAN BEACH RESORT In Walt Disney World near Orlando, Fla., is the newest hotel for tourists.

Disney's Floridian a grand place

By Lois Kendall
Staff affiliate

The Grand Floridian Beach Resort, the newest hotel at Walt Disney World near Orlando, Fla., is as breathtaking as the wildest ride in Magic Kingdom.

The 900-room hotel, which opened this summer, is set on 40 acres on the west side of Seven Seas Lagoon, between the Magic Kingdom and the Polynesian Village Resort. It is a step back in time to the turn of the century, when the idle rich took their winter leisure in luxurious seaside resorts.

The palatial grand lobby of the hotel is opulent. The vaulted ceiling, set with domed, art-glass skylights, is five stories high. A grand piano occupies center court, surrounded by plush, settees and overstuffed chairs in dusty rose and seafoam green. Huge, multibulbed chandeliers dangle from above, casting a muted glow onto the thick rose carpeting, which is embossed with tiny camellias.

Gleaming white verandas surround all six buildings at the resort. The breezy verandas, set with white wicker rockers, canary palms and southern magnolias, are as inviting as a cool mint julep on a hot Florida afternoon.

Carefully sculptured gardens surround the grounds.

The 819 guest rooms begin at $165 per night (off-season). Most rooms include two queen-sized beds plus a day bed. Suites (there are 81) include a parlor plus one to three bedrooms and are priced up to $265 per night.

Each room and suite has a private balcony that overlooks the swimming pool, white sand beach of the Seven Seas Lagoon, or the gardens and marina in back.

The Grand Floridian has five restaurants, two lounges, two snack bars, an arcade, a "Mouseketeer Club" child-care facility, four turn-of-the-century-style shops, children's activity area, heated whirlpool and health club.

Like Disney's other resorts, the Grand Floridian carries its distinctive theme throughout its architecture, landscaping, furniture and Disney characters. The Disney monorail stops beside the hotel's lobby.

For more information, call Walt Disney World Central Reservations Office at (407) 824-8000.

Epcot's Norway explores folklore of Scandinavia

By Lois Kendall
Staff affiliate

Disney World's Epcot theme park has added another nation to its world showcases. Old World Scandinavian folklore is celebrated in Epcot's 11th nation, "Norway, Gateway to Scandinavia."

The Nordic pavilion features a cobblestone courtyard, which surrounds replicas of authentic Norwegian architecture. A "stavkirke" (stave church), is styled after Gol Church of Halogaland, built around 1250 A.D., and carries the influence of Viking architecture.

Inside the pavilion, a glass-encased display features the "Legacy of the Vikings," an exhibit of artifacts.

Visitors to Norway pass by a cascading waterfall, into an ancient, 14th century castle. Here the stout-hearted may brave the Maelstrom—a twisting, plunging boat journey along dark and mysterious waterways. Craggy-nosed trolls, Viking explorers and tumultuous North Sea storms create thrilling adventures for the hardy time travelers.

When the dragon-powered vessel finally reaches a safe harbor, the weary voyagers disembark in a sleepy seaside village. Here, in one of the rustic, sod-roofed buildings, visitors may view a panoramic, 70mm movie depicting the history and people of Norway.

Restaurant Akershus is tucked beneath rustic brick arches and timber-vaulted ceilings. The stoutest of appetites will be amply sated by the hearty Norwegian smorgasbord. For a lighter repast, diners can grab an open-faced sandwich of smoked salmon, beef or ham, or rich, crusty pastry from Kringla Bakery, and eat it in the 55-seat open-air cafe.

Surrounding the cobblestoned courtyard is The Puffin's Roost, a clutter of shops filled with folk arts and crafts from farms, towns and cities across the rugged land of the Norsemen. Visitors can choose from a varied selection of items, ranging from hand-knit woolen sweaters to smoothly carved wooden horses to exquisite selections of pewter and crystal.

The Norway showcase is staffed completely by tall, blond Norwegians, all of whom speak English. Norwegian architects and historians assisted the Disney Imagineers in designing of the 58,000-square-foot Norway pavilion.

Eagle-Stone women select motto

The newly formed Eagle-Stone Ladies Outreach selected as its motto "Have No Respect of Persons" to show that the group is open to all, regardless of race or economic status.

The group is affiliated with the Eagle-Stone Church that will meet at 7 p.m. Sept. 25 at Days Inn, near Edwardsville, at Illinois 157.

Chairman Jerri Jones appointed two more ministries: Robin Jones to hospital ministries and Sheryl Blanton to "help" ministries.

The group plans two fund-raising events: a rummage sale and a bake sale. An ice cream social is planned for Sept. 25 after church.

The church is just starting out and has many needs, a spokesman said. The Ladies Outreach goal is to help buy a bus for the church's Sunday School. The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 13 at 2320 Cardinal Ave.

Those present were: Jerri Jones, Rhana Cook, Lynette Cook, Elise Cook, Joyce Richardson, Robin Wells, Betty Wells, Tiny Pinkston, Sheryl Blanton, Barbara Blanton, Jeanette Richardson and Doris Pulley.

Minority business roundtable slated

The Southwestern Illinois Small Business Development Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) will co-sponsor a minority business roundtable discussion at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, at the East St. Louis Development Authority Municipal Building, 301 E. Broadway, East St. Louis.

The discussion will provide opportunities for minority business owners to express concerns, ideas, needs and recommendations regarding the various aspects of minority business development.

As part of the DCCA/Small Business Assistance Bureau Minority and Female Business Development Action Plan, the roundtable is designed to assist minority businesses and foster minority business development throughout the state.

port. "Mobile Meals is a much needed and very worthwhile program in our community," said Helen Bergfield, chairperson of the program and president of the Auxiliary.

Last year the Auxiliary took over management of the Mobile Meals program and handles the record-keeping and financial aspects of it.

"A year ago we could see no light at the end of the tunnel," Bergfield said. "Now, I'm proud to say we do see such a light. We have the best service, of which we are very proud."

Hot meals are prepared and delivered by St. Elizabeth Medical Center five days a week, twice a day, Monday through Friday.

"We've never missed a route because of bad weather," said Bergfield, "and we also deliver on holidays when our recipients need them."

The hospital's Dietary Department prepares the meals, including some with special diets prescribed by the recipient's physician. Only those who are homebound, live alone and are unable to prepare their own meals are eligible to receive the meals.

Cost for each delivered meal is $3. If the recipient is unable to pay the full price, it is based on a sliding scale and on the person's ability to pay.

"Our program is set up to furnish a maximum of 90 meals per day, five days a week," Bergfield said. "We try to keep openings to take care of emergencies. Right now, we're sending out about 85 meals a day."

Chandler's delivery routes include stops at homes in Granite City, Madison, Venice and Poptoon Beach. "We serve from Mitchell through Eagle Park," Bergfield noted.

The first delivery, Chandler said, begins at 10:45 in the morning, and the second at 12:30 in the afternoon. "Right now we put about 55 miles a day on the van and 15,000 a year," he said.

Being behind the wheel of a new van makes driving all those miles more pleasurable for

Chandler. "I want to thank Helen and the Auxiliary for donating the van," he said. "I love it."

Old Newsboys Day was begun in 1957 by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, which ceased publication in October 1966.

This year, Old Newsboys Day is set for Nov. 17, and McMullin and Maritz have set a donation goal of $300,000.

"The purpose of Old Newsboys Day has always been to raise money to help numerous worthwhile organizations that may have no other way to raise the money they need," McMullin said. "We have people who are getting $500, $300, $1,500 that I'm sure would not be able to obtain what they need without Old Newsboys Day."

"This year, with the way prices have changed, we felt that we could raise the individual donation ceiling to $2,000 and still maintain our broad base, particularly if we reach our $300,000 goal."

Joint-use airport could benefit all parts of bi-state metropolitan area

By John D. Milazzo
Staff affiliate

If the St. Louis metropolitan area has aspirations of competing in the air transportation industry going into the 21st century, governmental and civic leaders must begin taking positive and decisive steps in that direction today.

That is the clear message from federal, state and local planners as a proposal for the expansion of Scott Air Force Base for joint military/civilian use gains increasing attention on both sides of the Mississippi River.

At the heart of that proposal is a study focused on the feasibility of converting Scott for commercial flights as a supplement to Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

The second phase of the three-phase study was released recently by a joint State of Illinois/St. Clair County policy committee that is administering the study.

The third — and likely most revealing phase of the study, being 80 percent funded by the Federal Aviation Administration — is due for release soon, according to Garred Jones, a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Transportation's Division of Aeronautics.

FAA officials have estimated that the demand for air cargo and passenger service will increase by approximately 80 percent by the turn of the century.

Jones said the second phase of the study outlines a "firm recommendation regarding a proposed runway location parallel to and 7,000 feet east of the existing runway," and outlines the environmental impact of that runway alignment.

According to the impact findings, 35 rural homes would be exposed to some adverse environmental impact due to noise.

"That is an extremely low number for this world today" in terms of designing new airport space, Jones said.

Illinois Department of Transportation Secretary Gregory Baise, who was in St. Louis recently for a breakfast celebrating the completion of the Interstate 270/255 "loop," renewed his call for support of the Scott proposal.

"Development of Scott Air Force Base as a major reliever airport for Lambert is potentially among the top two economic development projects in the bi-state region and possibly in the entire Midwest."

The breakfast at the Omni Hotel was sponsored by the Leadership Council of Southwest Illinois, an agency that has come out in strong support of the Scott proposal.

municipalities in the Madison/St. Clair counties area charged with actively promoting the plan, according to Carl E. Mathias, Granite City, chairman of the task force.

But, while the expansion is of major economic significance to Southern Illinois, it is of even greater importance to the bi-state region, according to Robert L. Koepke.

As associate director of the office of Regional Research and Development at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Dr. Koepke has been watching the issue develop over the last several years.

"Potentially, there should be more support for this than there was 12 years ago for the Columbia-Waterloo airport (proposal)," he said. That plan faltered after a storm of opposition raised by St. Louis and St. Louis County officials, who saw it as a direct threat to the future of Lambert.

Koepke said the time is ripe for gathering support from both sides of the river because of the air traffic crunch now confronting Lambert.

Jones said officials he has conferred with do not believe there is any way to develop new capacity at Lambert other than south of Interstate 70, "an area that is totally and densely developed."

Jones said that while he has no specific data, he believes such an expansion at Lambert would cost "literally billions of dollars." He noted that Chicago (See AIRPORT, Page 38)

FREE TAX SEMINARS

H & R Block is making free tax seminars available to the public. The seminars will be held on Saturday, September 24th, October 1st from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. This two-day workshop will concentrate on the basic concepts of tax preparation and itemized deductions. An experienced instructor will aid student learning through a combination of classroom discussion and hands-on problem solving. At the conclusion of both seminars participants will be able to continue their tax education by enrolling in H&R Block's 12 week course being held at several convenient locations. The tax seminars are free and you are, of course, under no obligation to enroll in additional classes. Class size is limited. Call now to make your reservation or for more information at 254-8986.

Convenience vital to recycling plans, energy officials say

By Scott Cousins
Staff affiliate

Unless it is convenient to do so, most homeowners will not participate in a recycling program.

That was the message from Gary Mielke, manager of the recycling office at the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

Mielke and Dave Walters, another ENR employee, were two speakers at an all-day series of workshops for local government officials at the Collinsville Public Library.

About 30 local officials and interested citizens heard the two discuss recycling programs.

There is an increased interest in recycling because of a lack of landfill space.

Also, recently-enacted state laws mandate that counties with a population of more than 100,000 (including Madison and St. Clair) must have a solid waste disposal plan by 1991.

By 1994 at least 15 percent of trash in the two counties must be recycled, and by 1996, 25 percent.

Walters talked about dropoff programs, in which residents bring recyclable trash to a predetermined pickup point, and curbside programs, where the city, a contractor or a not-for-profit agency collects the wastes at the resident's doorstep.

Public participation in recycling through dropoff centers is much lower than participation in curbside recycling, according to Walters.

Between 5 and 20 percent of residents annually participate in a dropoff recycling program, while participation in a curbside program can range between 60 and 80 percent.

Those figures demonstrate that convenience is the most important aspect in promoting recycling, said Mielke.

"Curbside is state-of-the-art in terms of convenience to the resident."

It is estimated that between 5 and 15 percent of residential waste can be diverted through curbside recycling, he said.

"That is not to say we should rule out dropoff centers completely," Walters said.

Advantages of dropoff centers are that they are relatively inexpensive, can accept a full line of recyclable items, can be open 24 hours a day, and can serve rural areas, Walters added.

Most recycling centers collect newspapers, glass and aluminum cans. But they can be expanded to accept some plastics, cardboard and used motor oil.

Disadvantages are that the centers are less convenient, can encounter zoning problems and experience poor sorting of materials.

"One problem that has plagued dropoff centers is their location," Walters said. "They have often been forced to operate in areas of town where people are afraid to go, or they looked like junkyards."

Dukakis, Jackson will be at Springfield Sept. 24

SPRINGFIELD — Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis and former candidate Jesse Jackson are slated to speak at a major Illinois Democratic Party fundraiser in Springfield on Sept. 24.

A third star of the Democratic national convention in July, of Texas, also has been invited to the William Jennings Bryan dinner but she has not said whether she will be able to attend.

It will be the second visit by Dukakis to Springfield since his nomination.

The state party expects to raise at least $150,000 from the dinner, which is being chaired by East Alton attorney and party activist L. Thomas Lakin. At least 1,000 are expected to pay $100 a ticket for the dinner at the Prairie Capital Convention Center.

The Democratic National Committee will provide matching funds of $3 for every $1 raised by the state party.

Up to $2.25 million will be used for the party ticket in Illinois by the national committee if matched by $750,000 in state party fundraising.

Mounds plans fall activities

Varied autumn activities are planned at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site, 7850 Collinsville Road.

The fall activities include a five-mile nature culture hike throughout the site's 2,300 acres.

"You can visit remote areas of the site with guides to learn about the Indian culture and the Indians' relationship to the land," a spokesman said. This free hike is scheduled for Oct. 2, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Please meet at the museum and bring a lunch and drink.

For flintknappers, there is an advanced flintknapping workshop scheduled for Oct. 15 and 16.

Tina Dillard, a professional flintknapper from Western Illinois University, will instruct the advanced class in making a Ramey-style stone knife.

In addition to the knife, there will be a problem-solving session. Advance registration and a $40 fee are required.

Other fall activities include Saturday craft demonstrations and public tours conducted by the Cahokia Mounds volunteer guides at 2 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

For more information or to receive a calendar of events, persons may call the Cahokia Mounds Museum at 344-3268.

New phone network saves $50 million

The state estimates it will save more than $50 million in telecommunications costs as a result of a new $109 million contract officially awarded to Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and US Sprint on Sept. 7 by the Illinois Department of Central Management Services (CMS).

The new contract calls for a complete replacement of state government's existing telecommunications network with state-of-the-art voice, data and video capabilities. Most of the system will be operational within two years.

"Our current telecommunications system is quickly reaching its capacity to handle the growing communication demands on Illinois state government," said CMS Director Michael Tristano.

"The new system will use cutting-edge technology to accommodate our present and future needs while significantly cutting costs and improving service. It will push Illinois into the communications forefront with the most advanced services offered by any state government in the nation."

The new network will support 130,000 telephones and 40,000 data terminals currently in use by the state government.

Illinois Bell and US Sprint will supply the equipment to manage the new statewide network as well as provide local service. US Sprint will supply long-distance services and facilities.

A blue-ribbon committee comprised of representatives from state government, higher education and private industry reviewed several proposals. The committee was chaired by Gov. Thompson's chief of staff, Jeffrey Miller, and included:

Secretary of State Jim Edgar, Comptroller Roland Burris, Bureau of the Budget Director Robert Mandeville, Central Management Services Director Tristano, State Police Director Jeremy Margolis, Transportation Secretary Gregory Baise, Public Aid Director Edward Duffy, Illinois Commerce Commission Chairman Mary Bushnell, Board of Higher Education Director Richard Wagner, University of Illinois Pres. Stanley Ikenberry and Amoco General Manager J.R. Reid.

Also reviewing the proposals were financial technical committees comprised of state telecommunications specialists. Three teams, Illinois Bell/US Sprint,

AT&T/Arthur Anderson, and MCI Communications/IBM, were selected for the final round of evaluations.

"We received excellent proposals from the three finalists to modernize the telecommunications facilities and services we provide for Illinois state government," said Tristano.

"Although it was a tough decision, the Illinois Bell/US Sprint team was chosen not only for being the low bidder, but because of its technical superiority and greater, long-term savings to the state."

New features of the system include:

- A high-capacity, fiber optic, long-distance backbone network which will carry all voice, data and video transmissions for state government;

- A uniform telephone numbering plan which will automatically route both local and long-distance calls on the most economical lines;

- A video network connecting Chicago, Springfield, and major state universities; and

- A new high-speed data network linking the computers of state government, universities and colleges.

cans. People set it out for them," he said.

He said it helps to imprint the city or village name on the containers.

"That says this is not just trash, it's village trash," he said.

According to figures he provided, participation rates for programs providing containers range from 40 percent to more than 80 percent.

For programs not providing containers, participation rates range from 10 to 42 percent.

"In the 18th Century, the waterways were the lifeline for commerce and in the 19th Century it was the railroads. In the 20th Century, you could only hope to grow if you were on an interstate highway," said Clark.

"The 21st Century is going to belong to the cities that have the biggest, most sophisticated airports with the longest runways," according to Clark, who until 1982 was an Illinois economic planner in the office of Gov. James R. Thompson.

containers use either one or three plastic containers.

In a one-container system, homeowners sort metals, glass and papers, usually putting paper on top and metals on the bottom.

"Putting the paper on top hides aluminum cans from the scavengers," he said. "These are the guys that ride around at 5 a.m. looking through people's trash."

"One problem with the curb-side program is now these people don't have to drive down alleys and go through trash regions for air transport-related dollars.

St. Louis regional leaders should take a cue from the Denver region, "where leaders determined they are going to position the area to be a major player in air traffic and the commerce that goes with it in the 21st Century," Koepke said.

In the Denver area, voters in May approved a ballot proposition that calls for the City of Denver to annex a 44.6-mile tract 26 miles northwest of the city in neighboring Adams County.

But that successful effort to replace Denver's overstressed Stapleton International Airport came only after 20 years of bitter infighting among Denver area municipalities and counties.

"It finally came together after 20 years of polarized opinion," according to Sharon Proehl, a spokesman for the Adams County Economic Development office.

Tom Clark, vice president for economic development for the Denver Chamber of Commerce, participated in the negotiations which opened the door to the project.

paper and metals, are sorted up by homeowners and picked out by haulers.

Although the planning and implementing of such programs, being tried by a number of communities in Illinois, can be difficult, Mielke said residents usually choose to participate or not because of simple reasons.

"If you give homeowners something to put recyclable items in, there will be a higher participation rate," he said.

is now in the process of developing its third municipal airport.

A master plan update aimed at possible expansion at Lambert could be completed by next summer, according to Marie Boykin, spokesman for St. Louis Mayor Vincent Schoemehl.

Koepke said the Scott project is significantly different than the failed Columbia-Waterloo plan. "The idea is to supplement, not replace, Lambert," Koepke said.

Much of the problem in attaining broad support for the Scott proposal will be in "persuading Missouri that this isn't some kind of Trojan horse," Koepke said.

Several Missouri officials have questioned the need for the Scott expansion, including St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary, who has complained bitterly that Illinois is attempting to "steal" airlines and their passengers from Lambert.

But Koepke said it is critical that both sides of the river unify their efforts because of an ever-escalating climate of competition between major metropolitan

Rep's 'Candide' light, enjoyable musical

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

Havelock Ellis said that "optimism flourishes most in lunatic asylums." But he might well change his mind after having a look at The Rep's madcap musical "Candide."

The eternal war between vaulting optimists and cynical pessimists as hilariously etched by author-philosopher Voltaire comes through with good humor in the musical version of "Candide," a Mainstage event that opened Webster University's Repertory Theater of St. Louis season Sept. 9 and continues through Oct. 7.

The musical has been cleverly staged by director Munson Hicks, who has drawn solid performances from a large cast able to handle the reasonably bright lyrics by Richard Wilbur, Stephen Sondheim and John Latouche. The result is a light and generally entertaining production.

The adaptation by Hugh Wheeler of Voltaire's witty 1759 novel provides a rich load of irreverence that pole-axes the "establishment," especially men and women clinging to the naive notion that even when worst comes to worst, it won't be so bad.

And for Polyannas routinely looking at the world through rose-colored glasses with their eyes tightly shut, the show's shattering satire sharply captures the roguish spirit and impudent social theories of its brilliant 18th century creator.

Youngful Candide was the hero of Voltaire's novel "Candide, ou L'Optimisme," which lacerated cockeyed optimists of the day convinced that "All is for the best in this best of all possible worlds."

His absent-minded tutor Dr.

Pangloss is the embodiment of this alarming credo, holding to it through thick and thin despite the most blatant examples to the contrary.

Various global misadventures befall Candide when he is thrown out of the castle of Thunder-ten-tronckh for seducing Cunegonde, the Baron's daughter.

Thereafter Candide, Pangloss and Cunegonde occasionally together but more often apart, pass through various worldwide locales enduring a succession of blatantly unfair, appalling but hilarious humiliations and disasters which cast Candide adrift among deceitful friends, treacherous pirates, and subject the innocent Cunegonde to enslavement and assorted indignities at the hands of Bulgarian soldiers.

Ultimately the lovers settle down on a little farm where things go further awry and they find themselves mucking about in the garden awaiting the next calamity that presumably will not wither Candide's insane optimism.

There are 16 players in the musical and with the exception of Candide and Cunegonde, everyone plays at least six roles, some of which are dandies.

Director Hicks employs every inch of The Rep's thrust stage to good effect, also operating from a run-around out in front of the orchestra pit and a pair of smaller platforms which bring the action closer to the audience. It took a lot of time and technical skill for the carpenters to put this complex set together and no one is talking about the horrendous lumber costs. Scenic designer John Falabella and The Rep's crew have managed to do a remarkable job.

As Candide goes searching for the meaning of life, the characters spin through 21 colorful scenes set on three continents and a number of islands, with potent support by lighting whiz Peter E. Sargent, costume queen

Dorothy L. Marshall, choreographer Terry Rieser, and Byron Grant, the show's music director.

Around the kitchen

Paper towels keep ingredients moist, crisp in microwave

Cooking utensils come and go, but paper towels in a microwave oven are hard to replace. They are handy, never need washing and can be thrown away when messy.

Paper towels designed for a microwave offer consistency for usage. At the very least, a cook will find sticking with a brand will give foreseeable results.

What can be done with them? They reheat muffins and other bread products perfectly. Use two sheets with the perforation in the middle of food so the paper product can be pulled away from finished food. Microwave muffin on high 10 to 15 seconds with time doubled if muffins come straight from the refrigerator.

Sprinkle corn on the cob with water. Wrap in a paper towel and cook on high 2 minutes. Bake an apple the same way. The moisture keeps the peel soft.

Bacon and sausage can be cooked between layers of paper towels that absorb grease and promote browning.

Steam fish, seafood, skinless poultry and vegetables by wrapping in paper towel moistened in running water. Vegetables like broccoli and carrots take about 4 minutes per generous serving.

Paper towels loosely covering a food or dish help prevent spatters while allowing the food to breathe so it is not airtight and subject to sogging.

For an entire hearty meal made on paper towels, here is a recipe that puts oriental flavors on a Mexican tortilla with an Italian name.

Pizza

- 1 (8 inch) flour tortilla
- 6 fresh medium shrimp, shelled, deveined, tail removed
- 6 (2 inch) strips julienned red pepper
- 6 (2 inch) strips zucchini, 1/4 inch wide
- 6 pea pods
- 1 mushroom, sliced
- 6 to 8 cubes firm tofu
- 1 cup fresh bean sprouts
- 6 microwave paper towels

Combine honey, soy sauce, lemon juice, ginger, garlic and 1 tablespoon sesame seeds in shallow bowl. Set aside.

Pierce fresh tortilla several times with fork prongs. Place tortilla between two sections of paper towel sheets. Microwave on high 1 to 1 1/2 minutes, just until tortilla is barely crisp. Remove immediately from towels. Set aside.

Place two connected towel sections on microwave-safe plate. Place shrimp directly on perforation. Fold long sides toward center, enclosing food. Fold both ends toward center, overlapping food. Hold packet under running water, letting excess water run off.

Turn perforated-side up. Microwave on medium-high 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, just until shrimp turns pink. Do not overcook. Place shrimp and tofu cubes in marinade.

Arrange bean sprouts over bottom of tortilla. With slotted spoon, arrange vegetables, shrimp and tofu on top. Sprinkle with 1 more teaspoon sesame seeds. Microwave on high 55 to 60 seconds, just until vegetables are reheated. Sprinkle with scallions.

Makes 1 serving. Note: Any combination of fresh vegetables can be used, such as cauliflower, broccoli, green pepper or exotic mushrooms. For additional flavor, marinate bean sprouts before adding to tortilla.

Chinese shrimp and vegetable pizza

Marinade

- 3 tbs. honey
- 1 1/2 tbs. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 2 slices fresh ginger, pared, finely minced
- 1 large clove garlic, finely minced
- 1 tbs. sesame seeds

Additional sesame seeds and finely chopped green scallions for garnish

AN APPETIZER of Zucchini Crab Bites flutters into the winner's circle with zesty taste and a heart-healthy outlook.

Heart recipe winners bite off appetizers, veggies to chew

By Janice Denham
Food editor

Everybody loves a winner. And recipes that tune into healthy practices are sure winners in life's satisfying pastime of eating.

The American Heart Association's Food Festival counts new winning recipes in this year's recipe contest as delicious fruits of its labor. The contest was sponsored by the St. Louis chapter of the AHA, Suburban Journals and Schnuck Markets. The appetizer-snack and vegetable side dish categories prove that big, delicious surprises can come in little packages. June Wollenberg, St. Charles, Mo., takes top honors for Zucchini Crab Bites, while Mrs. Edward W. Wolf, Belleville, wins with Matchstick Veggies.

Zucchini Crab Bites directly parallel a less healthy counterpart recipe which called for cream cheese and mayonnaise to be served on crackers, which usually contain saturated fat. Neufchâtel cheese is a perfect replacement with fewer calories that still holds its consistency. Reduced-calorie mayonnaise is also listed among the new ingredients.

Wollenberg serves the individual appetizers on zucchini slices, which hold up well for early preparation as an appetizer rather than crackers which would become soggy. If desired, the appetizer can be microwaved a short time so the zucchini stays tender-crisp and the topping looks more blended. The spread also can be spread on a sandwich, for example using toasted oat bran bread, lettuce and tomatoes.

Matchstick Veggies are a low-fat delight. The winner first sampled such a dish in Washington, D.C., where it was an instant hit. The vegetables are numerous so some can be replaced or deleted as they are available, and their colors make a striking presentation.

The vegetables are steamed with a bit of water, olive oil, parsley and lemon juice. If desired, a salt-free herb seasoning can be used. This version eliminates salt, a rich cream sauce and butter to become part of a healthful eating style. Wolf suggests serving it with broiled chicken breast and a green salad.

Judges looked for recipes that contain a minimum amount of fats and cholesterol, call for heart-healthy ingredients and preparation, and use few or no egg yolks and moderate amounts of salt. Special consideration was given to those that included a recipe upon which the healthful recipe was based.

Zucchini crab bites

Winner

Appetizer/Snack Category

- 1 oz. neuchâtel cheese
- 1 (6 oz.) can white crab meat, drained
- 2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1 tsp. pepper sauce
- 1 tsp. reduced-calorie mayonnaise
- 2 medium zucchini, thinly sliced, not peeled
- Paprika

Place cheese in 1-quart glass bowl. Cook on 50 percent power about 45 seconds to soften.

Add crab, lemon juice, pepper sauce and mayonnaise. Mix until well blended.

Arrange zucchini slices on glass serving plate. Top each slice with teaspoon of crab mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Cook on high setting until zucchini is crisp-tender.

Chill before serving.

Makes about 3 dozen appetizers; 16 calories, 5 mg. sodium,

8 gm. fat and 6 mg. cholesterol each.

Matchstick veggies

Vegetable Category

- 2 turnips
- 2 carrots, scraped
- 1 rutabaga, peeled
- 1 small yellow crookneck squash, seeds removed
- 1 small zucchini, unpeeled
- 1 cup fresh green beans
- 2 stalks celery
- 1 green pepper, seeds removed
- 1 red sweet pepper, seeds removed
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tsp. chopped parsley or 1 tsp. dill
- 2 tsp. olive oil
- 2 tsp. lemon juice

Cut all vegetables matchstick size; a food processor may be used for saving time. Cook vegetables in large pot with small amount of water, olive oil, parsley and lemon juice. Steam until vegetables are tender-crisp. Use pepper or dash salt-free seasoning to flavor.

Makes 8 generous servings; 47 calories, 26 mg. sodium, 1.4 gm. fat and no cholesterol each.

Tostada salad

- 1 lb. ground beef
- small onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt
- 3 to 4 tsp. chili powder
- 1 tsp. cumin
- 1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans, drained
- 1 can (2 1/2 oz.) sliced ripe olives, drained (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 medium head iceberg lettuce, torn in bite size pieces
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup cider vinegar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- Corn or tortilla chips
- 1 pt. cherry tomatoes, halved

In large skillet, brown beef over medium heat. Drain. Stir in onion, garlic, salt, chili powder and cumin. Cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Let cool 15 minutes.

Just before serving, add kidney beans, olives, cheddar cheese and lettuce to meat mixture. Toss to combine.

Blend mayonnaise, vinegar, water and grated cheese in blender to make dressing. Add half the dressing to meat mixture. Toss to combine thoroughly.

Serve salad with corn chips and tomatoes. Pass remaining dressing with salad.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Spiced pear butter

- 7 large fresh pears, pared, cored, diced (2 qt.)
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup water
- 7/8 cups sugar
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 tsp. allspice
- 1 tsp. cloves
- 1 pouch (3 oz.) liquid pectin

Combine pears in large saucepan with lemon juice and water. Heat to boiling. Cover and cook 10 minutes until pears are soft. Uncover. Cook over high heat 10 minutes longer, stirring and mashing pears as they cook.

In blender, puree half the mixture at a time until smooth (mixture should measure 5 cups). If it measures more than 5 cups, boil down; if less than 5 cups, add water.

Add sugar, cinnamon, allspice and cloves. Heat to boiling, stirring until sugar dissolves. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in pectin.

Pour into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Adjust caps. Process 15 minutes in boiling water bath.

Makes 9 cups.

RICE DISHES SPAN continents as eyes are riveted to see who takes home Olympic gold medals.

Korean hospitality shows in Seoul food

As gold medals fan out to all parts of the world this week, the herculean task of feeding these 5,000 athletes should receive its meritorious awards too.

The best sporting arenas will be used and worldwide interest will be given Korean hospitality in the form of the food it serves.

South Korea is expected to allow the import of 2,000 metric tons of high quality, grain-fed beef for use in hotels and up to 14,000 metric tons for use in other related outlets, according to the Korea Tourist Trade Assn.

"U.S. beef will be used to prepare many traditional Korean beef favorites, including Bulgogi (broiled beef), Kalbigu (broiled beef ribs) and Kalbijim (stewed beef ribs).

Korean-style ribs are suggested by the Missouri Beef Industry Council to celebrate the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul.

Of course, the other food basic that goes hand-in-hand with the Orient is rice. In other countries it is raised in the community and seldom gets farther than local villages because so much is eaten any time of day. Stir-Fry Rice Salad is a mild variation of flavors that might be appropriate for olympic-rooting by the television set.

Korean-style ribs

- 4 lb. short ribs, cut across grain 1/2 inch thick (See Note)
 - 2 tbsp. minced fresh ginger
 - 1 tsp. minced garlic
 - 1 tsp. chopped green onion
 - 1 tsp. sesame oil
 - 1 tsp. red pepper flakes
 - 2 cups soy sauce
 - 1 cup water
 - 2 cups brown sugar
 - 1 cup white vinegar
- Combine ginger, garlic, onion, oil, pepper flakes, soy sauce, water, sugar and vinegar. Mix well.
- Pour marinade over ribs. Refrigerate 8 hours.
- Drain excess marinade. Broil ribs 2 to 3 minutes per side about 4 inches from broiler. Ribs should be cooked to well-done.
- For appetizers cut between bones. Yields 12 appetizer servings or 4 main dish servings.
- Note: Request butcher to cut in 3-rib sections.

Stir-fry rice salad

- 4 choice chicken pieces (about 1 lb.) skinless, without bone
 - 1 cup chopped onions
 - 1 tsp. butter or margarine
 - 3 cups sliced celery, including leaves
 - 2 cups hot cooked rice
 - 1 cup chopped sweet pickles
 - 1/2 cup sweet pickle juice
 - 1 cup chopped pimientos
 - 3 hard cooked eggs, chopped
 - 1 tsp. salt
 - 1 tsp. pepper
 - 1/2 tsp. ginger
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- Cut chicken in small, thin pieces. Cook chicken and onions in butter about 3 minutes.
- Stir in celery. Cook 2 minutes longer.
- Remove from heat. Add rice, pickles and pickle juice, pimientos, eggs, salt, pepper, ginger and mayonnaise. Toss lightly to blend.
- Serve while hot. Garnish with tomato wedges and ripe olives, if desired.
- Makes 6 servings; 374 calories, 17.7 gm. protein, 20.9 gm. fat, 27.8 gm. carbohydrate, 839 mg. sodium, 198 mg. cholesterol each.

Oriental top round steak with rice

- 1 beef top round steak, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 inches thick (about 2 lb.)
- 1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple in juice
- 2 tbsp. oil
- 3 tbsp. soy sauce
- 2 tbsp. sherry
- 1 tsp. ginger
- 1 tsp. oil
- 1/4 cup chopped green onion
- 3 cups cold cooked rice

Combine pineapple and juice with 2 tablespoons oil, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, sherry and ginger in small saucepan. Cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool.

Place steak in utility dish or plastic bag. Add marinade, turning to coat. Cover dish or the bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours or overnight, turning at least once. Drain marinade from meat and reserve.

Place steak on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat. Broil at moderate temperature to rare or medium, 25 to 40 minutes, turning and brushing with marinade occasionally.

Heat 1 teaspoon oil in large frying pan. Add green onion and cook 2 minutes.

Add rice, 1/2 cup reserved marinade and 1 tablespoon soy sauce. Cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring constantly, or until heated through.

Serve fried rice with steak. Makes 3 servings.

Harvest moon pork

- 1 cup short grain rice
 - 1 lb. lean ground pork
 - 1 can (8 oz.) water chestnuts, drained, chopped fine
 - 1/2 cup grated carrot
 - 1/2 tsp. minced green onion
 - 1 tsp. minced fresh ginger
 - 2 tbsp. cornstarch
 - 4 tbsp. soy sauce
 - 1 tsp. sherry
 - 1 tsp. sesame oil or vegetable oil
- Salt and pepper to taste

Rinse rice in sieve under cold running water until water runs clear. Place rice in bowl. Cover with cold water. Soak 1 hour. Drain thoroughly.

Combine pork with water chestnuts, carrot, green onion and ginger, mixing well. Combine cornstarch, soy sauce, sherry and sesame oil. Add to pork mixture. Blend thoroughly.

Spread drained rice on plate. Make balls about 3/4 inch in diameter from pork mixture. Roll each ball in rice until well coated. Arrange balls about 1/4 inch apart in steamer lined with waxed paper. Steam, covered, 45 minutes.

Serve Harvest Moon Pork with Chinese hot mustard and sweet-and-sour sauce for dipping. Note: A steamer can be improvised by placing greased plate on metal rack or inverted custard cups over 1 inch of simmering water in large, covered saucepan. Makes 4 servings.

Shape up classic combination with addition of can of soup

Philadelphia cheese steak is one of life's joys that is receiving well-deserved praise nationwide. Here its mimic puts it in a baked potato, using a chunky canned soup that follows its flavors in savory beef broth.

The recipe combines mushrooms, onions and cheese with chunky pepper steak soup for a meal that can satisfy hungry bodies at lunch or dinner.

Another hearty one-dish meal is Mediterranean Noodle Soup, where tomatoes, parmesan cheese, basil, garlic and parsley give an Italian accent to chunky chicken nuggets soup. Served with warm bread and a glass of red wine, this soup will prompt visions of a Mediterranean bistro to take the chill off a fall evening.

Philadelphia cheese steak potato

- 2 tbs. butter or margarine
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1 can (19 oz.) chunky pepper steak soup
- 4 oz. process cheese, cut in cubes (½ cup)
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 4 large hot cooked baking potatoes

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat, in hot butter cook onion 3 minutes. Stir in mushrooms. Cook until tender, stirring occasionally.

Stir in soup, half the cheese and pepper. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Simmer 5 minutes until cheese melts.

Serve over potatoes. Top with remaining cheese.

Makes 3 cups or 4 servings.

Mediterranean noodle soup

- 1 can (19 oz.) chunky chicken nuggets soup
- 1 can (about 8 oz.) tomatoes, drained, cut up
- 2 tbs. grated parmesan cheese
- ½ tsp. basil leaves, crushed
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 tsp. chopped fresh parsley

In 2-quart saucepan, combine soup, tomatoes, parmesan, basil, garlic and parsley. Heat through.

STEAK AND POTATOES are revered for their heartiness. Here they team as a baked potato and its postcard love affair with Philadelphia's favorite sandwich.

Makes 2½ cups or 2 servings.

Grilled curried tuna with apples

- 1½ lb. skinless albacore tuna, cut in 1 inch thick steaks
- 1 tbs. oil
- 3 tbs. lime juice
- 1 tsp. curry powder
- ½ tsp. grated fresh ginger
- 1 tsp. chopped red onion
- 1 tsp. honey
- 1 medium red delicious apple, sliced thin

Rinse albacore with cold water. Pat dry with paper towels.

Make marinade by combining oil, lime juice, curry, ginger, onion and honey. Add tuna. Marinate in refrigerator 30 minutes, turning once.

Remove tuna, reserving marinade. Place fish on greased grate, 4 to 5 inches from hot coals. Cook 6 to 8 minutes per inch of fish, measured at thickest point, turning once and basting frequently with reserved marinade.

Do not overcook. Albacore should be pink in center when removed from heat.

Serve curried albacore over chilled apple slices. Makes 4 servings.

Sundance smoothie

- 1 carton (8 oz.) strawberry or raspberry non-fat or low-fat yogurt
- 16 oz. frozen strawberries or raspberries
- 1 bottle (10 oz.) raspberry or cranberry juice sparkling water
- ¼ cup non-fat or low-fat milk
- 3 tbs. unbleached wheat germ

Blend yogurt, berries, sparkling water, milk and wheat germ in blender until liquified, about 1 minute.

Makes 2 to 4 servings.

Recommended serving: Blend raspberry flavors together, or cranberry-sparkler with frozen strawberries and strawberry yogurt.

Olympic overdose

A viewer's guide to a mere 177½ hours of NBC coverage

Been watching the Olympics? Don't see how you could miss them.

If you touch the number "5" on your TV channel selector, your chances of seeing some part of Seoul, South Korea, are pretty good. NBC and Channel 5 have set aside 177½ hours of Olympic coverage.

The first started last Thursday with an Olympic preview from 8 to 10 p.m. There were four more hours of opening ceremonies on Friday. The games didn't start until Saturday. The games will end on Sunday, Oct. 2, when the men's marathon is completed. But NBC will still have several hours of closing ceremonies coverage that night and another three-hour review on Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Starting at 8 p.m. last Thursday and running until 10 p.m. Oct. 4, there are 458 hours of our lifetime. NBC will be hawking the Olympics for 177½ hours in that interval, or 38.8 percent of the time.

Those wanting to grab some spare airtime on Channel 5 had to grab what they could get. On Saturdays, NBC is Olympicizing from 11 a.m. to noon, 3 to 4 p.m., from 6:30 to 11 p.m. and from 11:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. On Sundays, Olympic time is from 7 to 11 a.m., 3 to 6 p.m., 6:30 to 11 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. The weekday schedule is from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., 6:30 to 11 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m.

Bryant Gumbel is hosting prime time. Bob Costas is anchoring the late night, although it would be even more entertaining with David Letterman, Jane Pauley, Gayle Gardner and Jimmy Kefauver are the weekday morning crew. Ahmad Rashad will be the mid-weekend guy. Maria Shriver (minus Schwarzenegger) and Cefalo will host the Sunday morning

Sports Comment

By Dave Whaley

Shows. Whew! Think they'll have enough time to get everything in?

Too much time? Not enough time? Just right? Makes no difference. Everyone should watch just as much as he or she wants. No one should feel obligated to watch the canoeing semifinals just to be a patriot.

That's not to put down canoeing or any other sport. I don't want any calls from canoeists, or whatever they're called. It's my belief that any athlete has put in years of training in his or her specialty and should be offered proper respect. However, it is stretching things to see how many people will be interested in watching certain events.

But the networks usually try to focus on the glamour events. The Winter Games interest me as long as there's a hockey game on. I'm convinced only national pride gets the southern portion of the United States to watch any of the Winter Games.

The Summer Games have more to offer. Basketball, track and field, boxing, volleyball, wrestling, swimming and soccer form a pretty good nucleus of events. Baseball is still just a demonstration sport, but you know that will be one of the biggies.

Local athletes, the glamour sports and the magic names will be the big draw for me. Here's a capsule guide:

Diving — Everyone knows about Greg Louganis. He's the big draw here. Wendy Williams of St. Louis has already won a bronze medal.

Canoeing — Not much interest here. The U.S. women's team is given a shot at a medal.

Water polo — Can be a fascinating sport to watch. Yugoslavia is the favorite, but the Americans have a medal shot.

Rowing — It would go by faster if they got motors for the boats.

Gymnastics — Olga, Nadia, Mary Lou. This always provides many of the most memorable moments, not to mention a female star under five feet tall. Scott Johnson, Tim Daggett and Charles Lakes are the American male stars. Kristie Phillips and Phoebe Mills are the petite ladies.

Fencing — Much more interesting if they didn't wear the padding. Includes the foil, sabre, epee and team competition. Italy is the best. Peter Westbrook is the top American.

Cycling — Features sprinters and long distance. U.S. figures to do well, although return of the Eastern bloc makes much stronger competition.

Tennis — Returns for first time since 1924. Pros are eligible, so it will be kind of like Wimbledon or the U.S. Open. That doesn't necessarily mean excitement in my book. Chris Evert will be there, as will SIUE products Ken Flach and Bob Seguso.

Team handball — Another one dominated by the Eastern bloc. Probably a little higher caliber of play than you might see when two businessmen take a long lunch and go down to the local YMCA.

Table tennis — Or ping-pong, as we hearthens in America refer to it. It's the Olympic debut for this sport. Did you know shots reach speeds of 100 miles per hour? The Chinese usually dominate, but the U.S. is given a shot at a silver or bronze. There will be singles and doubles competition for men and women.

Soccer — All praise to Granite City's very own Steve Trittschuh. The Americans have already scored a big upset with a 1-1 tie against favored Argentina in the first round. East Germany and Yugoslavia are given the favorites' role in some circles. Magic names like Italy, Brazil and Argentina are hurt by the fact that players competing in World Cup competition aren't eligible. The Americans aren't given much of a shot, but maybe "Eaver" can lift them to new heights. After one round, they are even with everyone else in their group. The USSR and South Korea tied, also.

Boxing — If the Americans could keep all their guys dry during and get them to the ring on time, they would be home free. Cuba isn't at the Games, so that helps. The U.S. should get medals if just about every weight class. Arthur Johnson of East St. Louis is there. The selection process is peculiar, however. A youngster named Mike Tyson failed to qualify in 1984.

Weightlifting — Kind of sickening to watch all those flabby guys, especially the ones with the hammer and sickle. Belleville's Derrick Crass is competing in the light heavyweight division.

Wrestling — This is the most wrestling you'll ever see on TV without listening to Jesse "The Body" Ventura. There's 20 classes of freestyle and Greco-Roman events. The U.S. could win eight golds in freestyle, while the Soviets should dominate the Greco-Roman. How come Greece and Italy don't do well in Greco-

Roman? Bruce Baumgartner is the top American. Hulk Hogan and Randy "Macho Man" Savage have no chance for a medal.

Track and field — The Americans nearly swept everything in '84 when the Eastern bloc was absent. The U.S. should still do pretty well. East St. Louis' Jackie Joyner-Kersey will try to maintain her unofficial title as the world's premier female athlete in the heptathlon and long jump. Gary Kinder, who was born in Granite City, is the U.S. decathlon champion. Connie Price of St. Louis will be competing in the shot put and discus. Carl Lewis and Edwin Moses are back to reaffirm their legends. And who isn't fascinated by Joyner-Kersey's sister-in-law? The term "lovely and talented" seems to have been invented for Florence Griffith-Joyner. Jackie's brother and Flo's husband, Al Joyner, failed to qualify for the games, but he's coaching Flo.

Swimming — Collinsville's Tom Jager and Edwardsville's Bill Stapleton are the local interest. Jager is a gold medal favorite.

Synchronized swimming — Takes a lot of heat from people who don't consider it a sport. But it's as much a sport as figure skating. Tracie Ruiz-Conforto is the top American.

Volleyball — Here's another sport that's really fun to watch when played at a world-class level. Karch Kirby leads the U.S. men as they try to defend their gold against the Soviets, who of course weren't there in '84. The U.S. women took the silver when China won last time.

Basketball — The U.S. men have lost only one game in the Olympics — ever. That was the controversial setback to the USSR in Munich in 1972. The two haven't met in the Olympics since, and might not this time, since Yugoslavia or Brazil is more likely to face the Americans in the finals. John Thompson has formed a team similar to his Georgetown squads leaning toward big, quick players who can force the action defensively. But if they need some outside shooting late in a close game, only Hersey Hawkins of Bradley is proven. But an inside force of Danny Manning, David Robinson, J.R. Reid and Charles Smith is formidable, to say the least. The U.S. women figure to have a showdown with the USSR for the gold.

Baseball — St. Louisian Dave Silvestri of the University of Missouri is the Americans' starting shortstop. Michigan's Jim Abbott, minus his right hand, is the top pitcher. The overall quality of competition will be down with Cuba missing, but the U.S. will fight it out with Korea and Japan. Look for this year's Olympics to be the major leagues soon, since the 1994 team featured names like Will Clark and Mark McGwire.

Equestrian — Men and women compete in dressage, eventing, and show jumping, so that alone makes it interesting. How come horses win in things like the Kentucky Derby, but the riders win in these events?

Judo — Japan hasn't dominated this event like you might expect, but the Japanese are a favorite. Michael Swann of the U.S. is the reigning world champion.

Archery — Darrell Pace and 14-year-old Denise Parker are the top Americans. Another sport that would be more interesting if the participants competed directly against one another. Know what I mean?

Redbirds' speed overruns Kahoks in SWC opener

By Jim Woodcock

COLLINSVILLE — Bob Hollingshead thought the Kahoks defense played positionally well Friday against Alton in the Football Bowl.

But Hollingshead, a former Granite City assistant, will be the first to concede that being where you're supposed to be doesn't guarantee success when speed is the enemy. The Kahoks found Alton's quickness Public Enemy No. 1 in a 22-7 victory for the Redbirds in the Southwestern Conference opener for both squads.

Alton took the early lead in the SWC along with Belleville West. The Maroons scored a 2-0 perfect win over the Warriors on Friday due to the District 9 teachers strike.

Speed accounted for Alton touchdowns in short yardage, long yardage and special team situations. A 27-yard field goal in the second quarter by Jason Armstrong proved just as valuable. The field goal put Alton up 10-0, forcing a struggling Collinsville offense to score at least twice to get back into the game.

However, the only points managed by Collinsville came with 25 seconds left in the contest when sophomore reserve quarterback Jim Wallace linked with Lee Childersleeve on a 36-yard touchdown pass. By that time, Hollingshead had seen enough of Alton's three-gun backfield attack of Vernon Davis, Greg Cross and Jason Snyder to suit him for the next 12 months.

"We were there, but as soon as we'd get there, boom — that burst of speed would kill us," Hollingshead said. "Then we'd miss some tackles. They're faster and quicker than we were, but more than anything it was the speed. Skill-wise, I thought we could do it, but speed was the difference."

Cross was the man Hollingshead feared the most entering the contest, and it turned out the coach was on target. Cross carried nine times for 117 yards, 53 of which came on a brilliant touchdown run with 2:13 left in the contest.

Davis, who was dropped for several losses and no gains, had a better night than his 21 yards on 12 carries reflects. Snyder ran 30 yards in five carries, and a handful of other Alton ballcarriers combined for 26 yards to unofficially give the Redbirds 199 yards rushing.

"We do have good balance as far as our running backs go," said Alton coach Collins James. "But we knew Bob had a good,

Dupo re-emerging as small school power

By Carl Jacobs

Staff writer

RED BUD — To fall behind the Dupo Tigers 15-0 in the first quarter this year is to kiss the game goodbye.

Just ask the Red Bud Musketeers, who did the exact thing Friday and lost to the powerful Tigers 41-0 at A.C. Daugherty Field.

Dupo, establishing itself again as one of the top small school teams in the area after a 2-7 mark in 1987, moves to 3-0 overall and 2-0 in Cahokia Conference play. The victory was also Gary Mauser's 58th as the Tiger head coach, making him the school's winningest football mentor. Mauser was tied with current Columbia coach Jerry Germain with a record of 57-23. The Tiger players presented Mauser with a plaque after the triumph. "It's an honor," Mauser said. "I have had a lot of good players that have helped me win the games this year and in the past."

Once the Tigers grab a two-touchdown lead, no one will catch them unless it has a pair of all-state receivers and a quarterback to match. Because the ball-controlling Tigers can take several minutes off the clock and score as they did Friday, Or they can score on one play less than 20 seconds as they also displayed against the Musketeers.

Then there is the extra-stingy defense, a unit which has not allowed a point this year. That includes the second- and third-string corps units which have played some of the third- and most of the fourth quarters in each of the first three weeks.

"Dupo is too good of a team to spot them 15 points," Red Bud coach Dale Huser said. "Dupo likes to grind it out and you can't give them a running start."

That's what the Musketeers did midway through the first quarter. Dupo's Wayne Jines recovered a Red Bud fumble on the punt and zig-zagged 90 yards for a score. The senior first took off to the left sideline, cut back to the middle to dodge several three touchdowns, giving him 12 for the season. He also had 98 yards on 23 carries, a high snap on the extra-point attempt almost went for naught, but Bobby Moore grabbed the ball and hit Eric Dugan with a pass in the end zone to give the Tigers a 8-0 lead.

Dupo and Tieman decided to take the fast route to the end zone the next time. John Dabb's head-ringing on-field punt Schmiel made Red Bud kick the ball with 45 seconds remaining in the first quarter. Tieman took the punt and zig-zagged 90 yards for a score. The senior first took off to the left sideline, cut back to the middle to dodge several

Garagiola started public speaking career here

My wife, Joyce, and I have raised a lovely family of five children, three boys and two girls.

We taught them early on two things: How to swim before they turned 3 and the love of reading books. A beautiful by-product of their love for reading was a family practice of giving hardcover books for birthday presents and other special events. Christmas, except for rare occasions, was exempted from this practice.

This past Father's Day my youngest daughter, Anne Teresa, her husband Richard and their 7-year-old David gave me a hardcover book authored by—guess who?—my favorite, Joe Garagiola. Joe called the book "It's Anybody's Ballgame," a highly delightful tome published by

Sports of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

Contemporary Books of Chicago for $17.95.

The book is 305 pages full of interesting reading. I wholeheartedly recommend anyone to buy a copy. Garagiola is a genuinely funny man. I believe he has the greatest sense of humor of anyone I've ever known. I've never heard him tell an off-color joke or anything on the edge of being raunchy.

His name to the major leagues in 1945 fresh from the sandlots of

The Hill to join the Cardinals. That was about the time I took a reporter's job with the St. Louis Star-Times.

Garagiola was one of the stars of the 1946 team which defeated the Boston Red Sox in seven games in the World Series. To this day, Joe has poked fun at his playing ability in a career that lasted until 1954. But he was much better than he lets on.

For example, in the five games he caught he was 6 for 19 (.316) and only Harry Walker (six) had more RBIs than Garagiola, who tied Marty Marion and Stan Musial with four each. Only Enos Slaughter and Walker had higher averages. Garagiola batted a respectable .257 in 1876 at bats during the 1946 season.

I moved to Granite City in 1954 to take a job with the Associated Retailers. About that time, Harold Brown started his long career as director of the Granite City Park District.

A few years later, Brown started the athletic awards banquet. He wanted a sports figure to speak at the dinner. He tried the Cardinals and the Hawks, but no luck. In desperation, he gave me a ring at my office. Joe Garagiola didn't come immediately to mind, but I remembered the many times I had heard him keeping everyone loose telling jokes. He had a great talent for telling stories, mostly on himself. At first he begged off, pleading that he had never spoken in public before. But he finally agreed to come to Granite City at no charge. He was a great success and thus started a great career as a master of ceremonies and in the broadcasting field.

Thanks for the memories, Joe.

Althoff breaks into win column; burst Comanches' bubble, 30-0

By Terry Moody

CAHOKIA — It was raining hard during the first half of Friday's game between the Comanches and the Belleville Althoff Crusaders. Just as well. No one wants to go through a game like this. The Comanches had on a clear day as Althoff rolled over them, 30-0.

The Comanches (2-1) suffered the first blemish on their record with the Crusaders (1-2) broke into the win column with a more Althoff-like performance after two close losses.

Coming back/return man Nephew Sims bobbled the opening kickoff and that was a fitting introduction for the rest of the evening. And no excuses were made.

"We just got beat," Cahokia coach Bob Eden said. "They outplayed us in every facet of the game. No excuses."

Althoff took advantage of the fumble, scoring its first touchdown with 6:49 left in the first quarter as Terry Chavis scampered in from the one-yard line. Tom Hasenstab's first of four PATs was good and the Crusaders went out to a 7-0 lead.

Althoff, running out of the power I formation, used the inside 4, so effectively they only put the ball in the air four times the entire game.

Smashing into a Cahokia defense that seemed to miss more tackles than it made, Chavis, Antion Mathews and Hickey Thompson had field days.

After a short Comanche possession that ended in an incomplete pass, the Crusaders took over and Mathews ran the second play from scrimmage down the sideline for 70 yards and another Althoff touchdown. The PAT was good and at 3:56 in the first quarter, Althoff led 14-0.

Cahokia managed to keep the ball for 11 plays on its next possession. There were two fumbles, one clipping penalty, two incomplete passes and Larry Wynn was sacked. Unfortunately, that was not the only time Wynn was sacked. The only thing that had more sacks than the press box was the Comanches' offensive line. The drive finally ended on a Crusader 25. It marked the only time the Comanches came close to scoring.

With 3:28 left in the half, Thompson went across the goal line from the one-yard line and at the end of the half the Crusaders had a comfortable 21-0 lead.

The Comanche defense stiffened on Althoff's first offensive drive of the second half, and Hasenstab missed a 45-yard field goal. After 30 seconds on offense, Cahokia was forced to give the ball back to Althoff on downs. Three minutes later, junior halfback Andre Rush went in from the five-yard line and increased the Crusader lead to 28-0.

According to Edwards, some of the issues facing black athletes today include: black sports management, hard drugs and performance-enhancing drugs in athletics, AIDS in the black community and its effect on black athletes, and racism as it pertains to blacks and the athletic arena. These will be addressed at his 8 p.m. lecture.

Harry Edwards to give lecture series at WIU

Dr. Harry Edwards, an East St. Louis native, will give several lectures and meet with various segments of the Western Illinois University community Sept. 29 in Macomb, Ill.

Edwards is an associate professor of sociology at the University of California at Berkeley and a noted "sports sociologist."

Edwards' lecture schedule will be: 10 to 11:15 a.m., "Where Will We Be in the Year 2000?" in the Library International Tea

Room/Garden Lounge; 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., "Race and Education in the Union Sandburg Theatre;" and at 8 p.m., "Issues of Controversy in Modern American Sports" in the Union Grand Ballroom.

In addition to his teaching and lecturing, Edwards has written articles and books focusing on issues affecting the black student-athlete and black athletes in professional sports. His books

Cardinals' Morris suffers through especially tough year

This has been a frustrating year for everyone on the Cardinals, but nobody has gone through a harder season than John Morris.

Morris was not in the locker room or on the bench for all of those losses in June and July. He was in California, trying to find out whether he would ever play baseball again.

Morris, a valuable reserve in the Cardinals' 1987 championship season, underwent surgery last Dec. 4 to repair two herniated discs and bone spurs in his back. He thought he would be back by spring training, then by June 1, then by the All-Star break.

"Finally, he wondered if he would be back at all," Morris said. "Two months ago I didn't think it was going to happen."

Morris said, "As confident as I am in my ability to work, there definitely were times when I wasn't getting better."

"I had tried so many different things—rest, therapy, different exercises—until I finally found the right thing. 'The right thing' was a program designed by Dr. Bob Watkins in California for other athletes who had undergone back surgery, including Joe Montana, Lance Parrish and Robby Thompson. It consists of a series of exercises some using a large blown-up ball—designed to strengthen the back and give support to the spinal area."

"I was out there for eight weeks and at the end of the program, Dr. Watkins told me it was time to find out if I could play or not," Morris said. "I knew I had done everything I possibly could."

So Morris went to the Cardinals' Triple A farm club in Louisville, Ky., on Aug. 16 and found Morris' father died of cancer Sept. 16, 1987, and his mother also was battling cancer at the time. Then came Morris' back operation and year-long recovery.

Now, Morris' mother is recovering and he knows he is going to be OK.

"Things are getting back to normal," he said. "I've got myself straightened out with my mom and dad, and my back is better. Mentally, I'm better off because there aren't as many distractions. I'm not so worried about things."

Which gives Morris a very positive outlook for the future. "I know I'm going to have to stay on my exercise program, but hopefully that will keep me healthy and I'll be able to perform in the same capacity as I did last year," Morris said.

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think I would have to go through what I did this year. But I think it's worked out for the best. It's helped me grow up a little bit. I've learned patience and perseverance. If I got mad at everything that's happened to me this year, I would be a very unhappy person to be around."

Vince Coleman reached 400 career stolen bases in his 599th game and at that pace he would break Brock's career stolen base record of 338 sometime in 1993. That would be in his ninth season. Brock set the mark in 19 years. The Cardinals have just two players eligible for free agency. Dan Quisenberry and Larry Williams, but have 11 players eligible for arbitration, the most of any major league club. Included in that group are Coleman, Jose DeLeon, Jose Oquendo, Terry Pendleton, Todd Worrell, Danny Cox and Ken Dayley.

Oakland A's pitchers have started taking batting practice, concentrating on bunting, in anticipation of making it to the World Series. The arrival of Gregg Jeffries means the Mets will have to drop somebody from their roster for the playoffs. It could be either Wally Backman, Tim Lincecum or Dave Magadan, but most likely will be a pitcher. The Philadelphia media want pitcher Greg Harris, who is ambidextrous, to pitch left-handed and right-handed in the same game before the end of the year, but so far the Phillies have not said yes or no. Jack McKeon apparently will have the same type of arrangement in San Diego that Whitey Herzog had for years in St. Louis, where he will be in charge of making player trades, but will have an assistant handling all of the contract negotiations and paperwork.

Ex-Cardinal of the Week: Jack Clark. Yankees' Clark broke out of his second-half slump with his 24th and 25th homers of the year.

Pressure to find good dove hunting grounds

On opening day of the dove season the lines of cars going up and down the blacktop roads in southwest Illinois resembled a geyser caravan.

"It was no wonder, I thought, that during the four previous afternoons I spent scouting fields for doves in this corn-rich area. I had talked to a few landowners who, having been burned by so-called sportsmen, had rejected their requests for access to their land."

One farm woman told me they had allowed two hunters to dove hunt their corn stubble last season with the agreement they would bring anyone with them on subsequent trips. Three days later they were back, and had three others with them, likely having gone home after the first hunt and bragged long and loud about the good hunting they had found. The effect that mob scene had on future hunting on that farm was to close it to hunting forever. A pity, but it is the same old story of a few ruining it for all the rest.

Morris is definitely gearing up for next year, both professionally and personally. "This hasn't been a very good year for the Morris family," he said.

facklers, then dashed back to the left for clear sailing. Travis Bucherich hit the extra point and Dupo led 15-0.

"Three people didn't do their job," Huwer said of the return. "After the score, the Tiger defense put a picket line up against Red Bud. The Musketeers got only five more first downs the rest of the game. The closest they got to the Tiger end zone was the 40."

"The defense played well again tonight," Mauser said. "Especially against Red Bud's passing game. They (Red Bud) completed a few, but the coverage was there. We were tested against a good passing attack."

spring in the cypress swamps of east-central Arkansas with Larry Rowe, an old Army buddy. I mentioned the great dove shooting we have in this area and asked him to share it with me. "Ain't shot doves in years," Larry said. "How about the first few days of the September season?" So a date was set. But now I had to produce and most of my regular places either had no cut corn or very few doves. That was the reason for my feverish scouting for four days previous to the opener.

Dove hunting in this area is mainly done over harvested cornfields. Scattered and fallen grain, plus weed seeds, attract the little speedsters and congregate them, making for excellent shooting. There can be seeds of doves in an area but if there is nothing to congregate them you can watch doves flying all afternoon and get very little shooting. The scouting had paid off, not only in a couple of good places to hunt, but also in determining that the far end of Hutchinson's field held plenty of doves, something you could not see from the road. The first two days Larry and I had great shooting, bagging liberal Illinois limits of 10 doves each. On the third afternoon, with my son Maurice along, we moved to another field and again had a fine shoot, taking doves riding a strong wind as they whipped over standing corn and out over the stubble.

Larry went home with a sore shooting shoulder but happy with the great gunning, leaving an invitation to come down south in late September for more bass fishing.

I had decided to stay home the fourth afternoon, having been pretty well shot-out. But the more I thought of it that morning, the more itchy I became and by the time I talked myself into another round with the little swift-flying doves.

It was a Sunday and I knew plenty of hunters would be out. The birds were getting wary, flying higher and becoming more adept at dodging crouched figures in corn stubble. So I decided to forego the improved cylinder barrel and go with a modified tube on my 12-gauge automatic, which turned out to be a wise choice.

Dove hunting is popular for a number of reasons, one being the simplicity of the sport. You don't need a lot of equipment, a gun and shells being the only essentials. But camouflage clothes are a definite aid. An item I can't do without is a small camouflage folding stool with carrying strap and cargo pocket in the seat, the latter carrying shells, bagged doves and water flask.

It is a great comfort and an aid to better shooting to be able to sit while waiting on doves. You can get mighty uncomfortable standing and present too big a silhouette to incoming doves. Kneeling or crouching is even more uncomfortable. Sitting on the ground is nearly as bad and doesn't allow you the freedom to swing and shoot quickly in any direction.

I got situated about 3 p.m. in the corn stubble, having built a small, flimsy blind of sorts from weed stalks, just enough to break up my outline. A few doves were moving. The area had been hunted hard every day, with many doves no doubt having moved out and those remaining becoming spookier. But thanks to the lighter barrel and a friend's special hand loads of No. 7 1/2 shot, I managed to drop some of those high overhead doves, although an embarrassing number of red hulls littered the ground about me.

Red Bud, which put the ball up at every chance, had little luck. Dupo's swarming pass rush had quarterback Doug Cerny on the run. Cerny took a hit on the last play of the second quarter and was replaced in the second half.

In all, Red Bud was just 6 of 16 for 80 yards in the air. Dupo registered three sacks, and Moore had an interception and made two other good plays to break up passes.

The second quarter was the beginning of the end for Red Bud. A high snap on a Musketeer punt attempt gave the Tigers the ball 31 yards away from paydirt. Enough said, as Dupo fullback Tim Nelson booted 16 yards to give the Tigers a 21-0 lead at halftime.

"You can't put a good football team on your 25- and 30-yard line and win," Huwer said. "Because they are going to score."

The big test now awaits. The Tigers will face 3-0 Carlyle on Friday. The Indians have disposed of all three of their opponents in similar fashion as Dupo. The Tigers have outscored their three opponents 120-0. The Indians have run up a composite 133-20 score.

"We will find out how good of a team we are this week against Carlyle," said Mauser, whose team will visit Madison a week from Friday. "We will know where we stand."

aggressive little football team. We just got the breaks and we scored first. That brought us the momentum we needed to be successful and we ran the ball straight at them.

"We knew we had a lot of speed. We wanted to see if they could keep up with us, so in our first sequence of plays we ran quick pitches to the outside. We wanted to loosen them and then go back at them up the middle. That was our game plan, and I thought it worked real well."

Davis put Alton on top with 2:23 left in the first quarter on a two-yard pop set up several plays earlier by a 22-yard gain to the 1-yard line by Sydnor.

Alton extended its lead to 10-0 with 10:20 left in the second quarter on Armstrong's field goal, which was ruled good after some indecision by the officials. One official ruled immediately that it was good, but another in the end zone appeared to wave it off before confirming the score.

Hollingshead argued the play, but that paled in comparison to his protest of a 51-yard punt return touchdown by Davis. Hollingshead was miffed that no roughing the kicker call was assessed, and his furor was compounded when it appeared that Davis stepped out of bounds en route to his score that increased Alton's lead to 17-0 with 6:04 left in the game.

"He was reaching for the flag but didn't pull it out," Hollingshead said. "Then he stepped out of bounds. Then our kid was clipped on the return. I asked about this, but they ignored me."

"If we get a roughing the kicker, it's still 10-0. But that didn't lose it for us."

True enough, because Collinsville's offense didn't get untracked all evening. Five turnovers, further hindered the Kahoks, who dropped to 1-2 and 0-1 in the Southwestern Conference.

Alton, which improved to 2-1 overall and 1-0 in the league, sealed the decision with Cross' 53-yard TD (the extra point failed). After being blanked in their opener, the Redbirds have now scored 49 points in their last two games.
